INDIANAPOLIS, IND., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1939

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Indianapolis under the act of March 3, 1879.Mid-West Region Names
Mrs. Berkman Again;
200 Delegates Attend

By PEARL HAFSTROM

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Mrs. Harry Berkman of Chicago was re-elected president of the Midwest Region of Hadassah here Monday in closing sessions of a two-day regional conference attended by more than two hundred delegates in the Oliver Hotel. Other officers elected are Mrs. S. Markson, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. Leo Gradinger, Waterloo, Iowa; Mrs. A. Miller, Rockford, Ill.; Mrs. Leo R. Cohn, South Bend, Ind.; Mrs. David Cohen, Louisville, Ky., vice chairmen; Mrs. Ira Maxon, Moline, Ill., recording secretary; Mrs. Harry Oscherwitz, Chicago, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. E. E. Levin, Indiana Harbor, Ind., treasurer. Mrs. A. J. Perlman, Chicago, was returned as education chairman.

Highlight of the conference was an address on Sunday night at dinner by Judge Harry M. Fisher of Chicago, outstanding Jewish leader and for many years one of Chicago's most prominent jurists. He discussed "Palestine in the World Scene" and declared that Adolph Hitler has made the Jews the symbol of all he seeks to destroy.

"Never before have the Jewish people been so tried and never before have they been so dignified by being made victims of a mad man's persecution," he declared. He told the conference that Jews in America have a double responsibility—to keep the country free of the infections which have caused disintegration of other countries and to assist in the establishment of a homeland in Palestine as a haven for oppressed Jews.

"With the disintegration of Europe," he said, "Jewish survival depends on the Jews in the United States and in Palestine. Half a million Jews in Palestine have the strength, beauty and dignity, by living a tradition and creating a land, to absorb more and more of their fellowmen."

Other speakers Sunday night were Miss Pearl Franklin of Chicago, instructor in Wright College and a member of the national board of Hadassah, and Mrs. Oscar Bender, Philadelphia, Pa., member of the national board. The afternoon featured youth division meetings and a tea at which Miss Franklin spoke.

Monday morning was occupied with reports and departmental discussions and in the afternoon three prominent Chicago Jewish leaders addressed a luncheon meeting on "Forces in Jewish Survival." Mrs. Solomon Goldman, wife of Rabbi Goldman, head of the Zionist organization of America, talked on "Zionism"; Mrs. Milton J. Silberman spoke on "Religion," and Mrs. Phyllis K. Ziffren on "Education."

Epidemics Rampant
Among Polish Jewry

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

PARIS—Epidemics of typhus among Jews in Warsaw, Lodz and other localities in Nazi Poland were reported in a message from Warsaw brought here by Dr. Joshua Gottlieb, former editor of the Warsaw Yiddish Daily Moment, who arrived in Paris en route to Palestine. Declaring that "the epidemics are due chiefly to starvation and exhaustion," Dr. Gottlieb said that in Lodz the disease was taking a heavy toll in the poor Jewish section known as Balut, while in Warsaw it was spreading in the ghetto without any attempt by the Nazi authorities to check the epidemic.

Dr. Gottlieb revealed that his wife was killed by the explosion of a German bomb in a Warsaw street while she was administering relief to victims of the bombardment. He praised the work of the Joint Distribution Committee during the invasion and afterward, declaring it was the only assistance available to the Warsaw Jews.

The Cub program is modeled on that of the Boy Scouts, but is adapted to the interests of younger boys. Mrs. George W. Hofmayer, who, with Mr. Hofmayer, leads one of the most successful Cub Packs in the city, will speak to the fathers and mothers of prospective Cubs at this meeting.

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

Miss Ziff urged the younger generation of Jews to be courageous and strong in order to build a better future for the Jewish people.

The convention accepted a minimum budget of $93,685 for the education, social service, Youth Aliyah and land reclamation projects that Junior Hadassah supports in Palestine. The sixteenth convention voted affiliation with the American Youth Congress.

The 1,500 delegates and guests from forty-one states, meeting at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, at the opening session honored Miss Henrietta Szold, Baltimore-born leader of the Youth Aliyah organization, on her seventy-ninth birthday and heard Dr. Stephen S. Says Situation Not Correctly Stated

To the Editor:

The writer had resolved once, never again to engage in a newspaper controversy, realizing that an editor, like a woman, always has the last word. However, as an official, not an individual, I cannot permit your comment on the recent Jewish Federation and Jewish Welfare Fund annual meeting to go uncorrected and unanswered.

Your statement of facts is erroneous and incomplete. You did not seek to present any name for election as director of the Jewish Welfare Fund. You arose to present a nomination from the floor of a member of the Board of Governors of the Jewish Federation.

You received no "rebuttal." You were told that the by-laws required the printing of the report of the nominating committee in the Jewish press, with word to the effect that nominations could thereafter be made five days before the meeting by notice to the executive secretary. You evidently had not read your own paper, containing such report.

Moreover, you were not barred from making a nomination, for Rabbi Feuerlicht, Julius Falender, and the writer all volunteered to withdraw and let you make such nomination, but this you thereupon declined to do. May we be pardoned for suggesting that if you want those not present at the meeting to know the story, that you tell them the whole story truly and correctly?

You had your chance to name three of your "young blood," although I cannot concur in your view that we "oldsters have failed miserably."

Since your effort at nomination was directed to the Jewish Federation Board, I resent, on its behalf, your allegation that either plutocracy or dictatorship exists, or has ever been considered in the choice or conduct of members of the Federation Board. A plutocrat is defined as "one who has rule or power by reason of his wealth." I attach hereto, and shall thank you to print, the names of the Board of Governors of the Jewish Federation. There is only one man on the list of great wealth, and his great service to the community has brought him recognition.

While I am not president of the Welfare Fund, or authorized to speak for it, I hand you also the list of members of the Board of Directors of the Jewish Welfare Fund. I challenge you to point out one person upon the list, chosen for wealth and not for communal service, or to name one lacking in ideals. One man of wealth has resigned from Board and Fund, because the Board would not act in accordance with his wishes.

Thank God for the men of means of this community. But for their generous cooperation in both service and money, we could not send the liberal amounts we do to Joint Distribution Committee and United Palestine Appeal, to say nothing of other national and local causes.

If the community wishes to change by-laws of either organization, the Boards will consider such changes. Personally, in my opinion, nominations from the floor present possibilities of danger. Undeserving people, named without notice, might get their friends out to vote them in. Annual meetings often go by default, anyway. The five-day rule affords ample opportunity to nominate the poor, the young, the intelligent, the idealistic. But do not ignore those who have age, experience, wisdom, means and, above all, the Jewish heart.

Editor's note:

Mr. Feibleman gives a true account of the incident at the annual meeting. When universal suffrage, and also universal education, were being considered by the United States, the same "possibilities of danger" were used as reasons why these privileges should not be extended to all people. If someone were to bring his friends to an annual meeting and cause himself to be elected, as Mr. Feibleman fears, that would, in this paper's estimation, be the greatest boon to democracy in this community that could happen.

The Jewish Post has no argument with The Jewish Welfare Fund, which it inadvertently mentioned instead of The Jewish Federation. The Federation represents one viewpoint, one element in the community, is definitely not democratically set-up, and despite its good intentions, cannot represent the Indianapolis Jewish community. The Federation should allow each organization to name its representative to the Federation.

Let it be said here that the community should be eternally grateful to those men on The Federation, regardless of their station in life, for their willingness to work for the good of the community, with little reward in either glory or appreciation. However, The Post sticks to its guns—asks that the community be given adequate representation.

A. Z. A. Goes Into Tie For Bowling Lead

Due to the increased interest the B'nai B'rith Bowling League has been expanded into a six-team league. The two additional teams will be known as the Monitors, captained by Robert Netzorg, and the Executives, captained by David Yaver.

A. Schuchman, of the A. Z. A. team, led the bowlers last Sunday with a three game total of 548. The A. Z. A.'s won two out of three from the Presidents, and went into a tie for first place.

Due to the expansion there is now room for more members of B'nai B'rith. The league bowls at 34th and Illinois streets.

SHOTS ABOUT BIG PEOPLE

Maybe someday soon you'll be reading the name Peter Lindt in the bright lights. But today you can find him at home at 2039 North New Jersey, a round-faced Viennese refugee, smiling his way around in a new land. In Vienne he was a rather famous writer for one of the largest daily newspapers, for when the Paul Munis visited there he made their acquaintance. So that when Paul Muni played here at The English Theatre several weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. Lindt were in the fourth row, guests of Mr. Muni, and Peter was commissioned to write a full length play for the famous Jewish actor.

Here for a talk before the National Municipal League convention several weeks ago, portly Murray Seasongood, former mayor of Cincinnati, who is a national figure, said he thought the General Jewish Council was doing as well as could be expected and was moving in the right direction. Mr. Seasongood is a member of the Council, as an American Jewish committee representative.

At least four Indianapolis Jewish leaders are expected to attend the sessions in Chicago this week-end marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Joint Distribution Committee. Others may attend, but those who should attend will be Louis J. Borinstein, Gus Efroymsen, Isidore Feibleman, and H. Joseph Hyman.

Petite, attractive president of the local Hadassah chapter, Mrs. S. A. Silberman, returned Monday evening from South Bend where she attended the Mid-West region convention of Hadassah, which she described as more "thrilling" even than the national convention she attended some weeks ago. Mrs. Silberman was especially enthusiastic about Phyllis K. Ziffren, who she said electrified the meeting.

A man who looks what he is, deep, had thinking Clarence W. Efroymsen, ardent Zionist and last year's chairman of the East Central States Conference of Jewish Welfare Funds and Federations this week was named chairman of the State City Manager Plan Study Commission. The commission was appointed by Governor Townsend in compliance with action of the 1939 General Legislature, and Tuesday in the Governor's office elected Prof. Efroymsen, chairman. Prof. Efroymsen, who is in reality Dr. Efroymsen since he holds a Ph. D. degree, is a teacher of history at Butler University.

Unity In Raising Funds For Europe Talked In New York

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—An attempt to reach a basis for joint fund-raising in the United States was discussed at a conference of eight national organizations dealing with refugee and overseas needs in New York on November 11 called by the board of directors of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds, it is disclosed by Notes and News, the council's organ.

"The meeting was called," the publication states, "in response to the desires of local welfare funds throughout the country as expressed at regional conferences of the council in recent months. Resolutions have been passed in several regions urging continuation of the United Jewish Appeal in 1940 and its expansion to include other overseas agencies."

"Those who attended were Joint Distribution Committee, United Palestine Appeal, National Refugee Service, O. R. T., H. I. A. S., Jewish Telegraphic Agency, National Labor Committee for Palestine and American Friends of the Hebrew University. Representatives of the national agencies and members of the council's board considered two proposals put forth by the council: The development of more thorough-going and effective consultation between the agencies in planning and carrying out their respective functions, and an attempt to reach a basis for joint fund-raising in the United States, at least for organized welfare fund communities."

What she was doing, under the wing of Dr. Emanuel Gamoran, leading United States Jewish pedagogy, although not a deep secret, yet was never publicized. This week Miss Brill's work was divulged. A course in "The Jewish Festivals," a correspondence course, was offered to Jews throughout the nation. Author of the syllabus—Frieda Brill.

BEAUTY SHOP:

If you'll recall, we've had a few snow flurries here in Indianapolis in the last week, and that means that Ol' Man Winter is ready to start to huff and puff and blow your house in. You know, this winter weather with its snow, sleet, rain, and its fog and smog sure can do a lot of damage to your hair. Most dermatologists agree that dirt and dust particles clog the pores, take away life and luster from your hair and make it appear drab and lifeless. TURNER'S have six competent operators to attend you, and they are schooled in the science of proper scalp and hair treatment. The shop is so convenient, too; it's located at 34th street and Illinois, right in your neighborhood.

SCHRIEVER'S STUDIO:

Well, now that I'm on the subject of winter, you know, the dark, cold days to come can be awfully lone'y ones unless you have a complete program planned for each day and each week. Of course there is the bridge or mah jong club, the movie and club activities; but you'll still find plenty of time on your hands. Well, those of you who have perfect figures will just have to fill in left-over time by sitting in the corner and twiddling your thumbs. But those of you who are inclined toward the plumpish side, here's some good advice. Join the RICHARD SCHRIEVER studio of beauty culture. Spend your mornings or afternoons (one or twice each week at this delightful place. Learn to reduce and enjoy it. Walk over there today, the address is 2702 North Pennsylvania street, or if it's too long a trek, phone HA. 1143 for an appointment.

INDIANA FUR CO.:

Have you received your birthday gift as yet? Yes, there is a gift waiting for you at the INDIANA FUR CO. right now—today! Heck, no; it's not because one or two of you readers might be celebrating an additional candle on your cake, it's because the INDIANA FUR CO. is celebrating its 55th anniversary. To thank you for your continued and loyal patronage throughout the years, the Davidsons Bros. are making it possible for each and every one of you to own a beautiful fur coat at an amazingly low price. This, then, is where the gift comes in. Every coat has been reduced to such an extent as to mean an actual cash saving to you, and besides that arrangements have been made so that you can purchase your coat on easy, convenient terms. You know, you can hint to the hubby and let him know how much a fur coat would be appreciated as a gift this Chanukah, and I feel sure he'll catch on quick and not disappoint you.

It was decided at this meeting that the council was to appoint three delegates to represent the foundation at the meetings of the University Religious council.

Non-Jewish Students Favor Good Will and Hit Inter-Marriage

WASHINGTON—The majority of non-Jewish college students are friendly in their attitudes towards Jews, and bitterly hate Hitler's anti-Semitic program, but at the same time oppose intermarriage.

These facts were brought out in a survey conducted among 2,000 Gentile students in 21 different colleges by Rabbi Ralph Blumenthal, of Huntington, W. Va., who reports on his experiment in the forthcoming December issue of The National Jewish Monthly.

When asked, "Would you marry a Jewish person?" 27 per cent of the Gentile students answered yes; 57 per cent, no, and 16 per cent were uncertain. When asked whether they approved of intermarriage between Jews and Christians, 33 per cent said yes; 60 per cent, no, and 7 per cent were uncertain.

Religious difference was given most often as the cause for these attitudes, although a large number opposed intermarriage because they believed the differences in cultural background, such as customs, ideals, and traditions, would prove difficult obstacles to happiness. Some were opposed because they had no wish to endure unpleasant social consequences; others, because they believed that children of mixed marriages would suffer.

When asked what their attitude would be toward a Jewish family that moved next door to them, 19 per cent reported a favorable attitude; 19 per cent unfavorable; 49 per cent were indifferent, and 13 per cent didn't know.

Only 15 per cent favored a complete stoppage of immigration; 52 per cent were for maintaining the present immigration level; 26 per cent favored reducing it, and 7 per cent, increasing it.

A surprising development in good will was shown when the students were asked whether they favored admission of Jews into the fraternities and other social clubs, 45 per cent said yes; 42 per cent said no, and 13 per cent were unable to make up their minds.

Eighty-six per cent disapproved Hitler's treatment of German Jewry; 6.7 per cent approved, and 7.3 per cent didn't know.

HEBREW SPEAKING CIRCLE

We Jews have many things to be proud of and should take every opportunity to avail ourselves of information dealing with our contributions to every form of art and science. Take music, for example. Thousands all over the world have thrilled to the compositions and interpretations of Jewish artists. Who will ever forget George Gershwin and his Rhapsody in Blue? Ernest Bloch and his symphony, America? Rubin Goldmark, composer of Hiawatha, Samson and the Requiem? There is Elman, Heifetz, Kreisler, Zimbalist, Menuhin and countless other famous violinists. Among renowned pianists we find Leo Ornstein, Joseph Hoffman, Leopold Godowsky and many more. Oscar Hammerstein improved opera considerably in America, as did Erich Krongold, Milton and Sargent Abrons and others. Alma Gluck, Hulda Lashanska, Lilli Lehmann, Rosa Raisa and Sophia Braslau thrilled many a metropolitan opera audience with their glorious voices. The popular songs that millions hum and sing from Maine to California are in many cases productions of young Jews. Irving Berlin has risen to fame as has Leo Feist, Jerome D. Kern, Albert Von Hilzer, Shapiro and Bernstein and many more.

Speaking of music, Mr. Karsh of this city, well known in the insurance business, is not only a fine piano player, but it wasn't so long ago that he taught David Rose, husband of Moutha Raye, how to tickle the ivories.

Sure had a nice crowd at Kirshbaum watching the regular Sunday League basketball games last week. The Post's outfit licked Sam's Men Shop and the Whites licked the Greens. This Sunday the teams switch opponents and go at it again. The first game starts at 2 p. m. Admission is free, and you'd better come early if you want a seat.

We hear by the grapevine that the Central Hebrew Congregation is about to get a new rabbi. Wonder who he is?

A new organization, called the Indianapolis Triangle, is now in the process of drawing up a constitution and from their charter membership list I wouldn't be a bit surprised if it becomes one of the most potent groups in the city!

What's the matter with you A. Z. A. mugs? there was a time when you cut so many capers that you were a delightful source of info for this heah column. But it seems that lately you've been letting down. Come on now, give out and we'll give you plenty of space in the Post.

Saw Joan Weiss and Eleanor Rothenberg in Nap town over the week-end with their favorite boy friends, need I say who the males were? Also spied Helen Alpert, that lovely Miss from Chicago and little Natalie Marcus. Natalie is still waiting for her Lochinvar to come out of the West riding on his Golden charger. Your time'll come gal, it'll come, so 'elp me.

Sure are a lot of sliding slipping skaters making their way out to the Coliseum these days to try their hand at ice skimming. Last week the elder Mr. Goodman got on skates and he did quite a bit of skating-on his gludios maximus. Got to give him credit though, he's got many a young whippersnapper licked by a darned sight.

I don't know much about what's going to happen at the Beth El youth group meeting Sunday night, but I do know that the festivities will include a box lunch. Boy, if that shouldn't drag all you starving Armenians out, I don't know what will.

Among those celebrating Thanksgiving, Eve at Red Gables were Martha Raye and her troupe. Also seen at one table, having a swell time, were Helen and Harry Myers, Jack and Wilma Pozner, Ruth and Ed Kauffman, Sid and Edgar Klain, Francis Kauffman of Gary, and Al Weinstein.

O. K. fellers, take out the little black book, 'cause here's a new number to insert therein. Her name is Gwen Rosenack. She's the sister of Dr. B. D. Rosenak, hails from Terre Haute and is quite a nifty looker, yousah.

Lotta pippie had one grant time at the gobbler night ball last Thursday at Beth El. Many were still too full of turkey and gufilte fish to do much good on the dance floor, but still others proved that they could really take it and did some mighty fine strutting, especially when the orchestra played "The Turkey Trot." Dr. and Mrs. Phil Fichman were there, as were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rothbard, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Selig, Harold Stolkin and a lass from the University of Illinois, Sam Smulyan and Natalie Stolkin.

Tiny Epstein and Helen Asher, Sidney Weinstein and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scharffin, Senator and Mrs. Jacob Weiss, Lou and Mary Fink, Virginia Marcus and Jack Selig, Bess Epstein and Gus Domont, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alpert, Rabbi and Mrs. Charry, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sablosky, Ben Blieden and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Max Farb, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Glick and many more. Did any of you celebrate again this week?

Dorothy Straus of 1437 Park Ave., has started something new. She has organized a reader's service for invalids, the blind and others who want to have books or current literature read to them. This, in my humble opinion, is not only an innovation but unless I miss my guess, many a lazy student will pay to have someone read his lit. or math. assignment out loud while he reclines on a soft sofa nibbling on a few choice bon bons and gurgling cokes by the score.

Well, folks, got to be buzzin' along, so we'll see you at Kirshbaum, Sunday afternoon and at the Beth El meeting that night. In the meantime, keep your noses clean and send us all available dirt. Ketch On?

Says Something Must Be Done

To the Editor:

Although I am a great believer in Yiddish culture and have always urged the cultivation of the Yiddish language, there have been moments of late when I have envied those American Jews who do not know Yiddish and do not read newspapers in that language. Their ignorance or avoidance of Yiddish has spared these Jews from a shattering experience, for the English newspapers give them but a meagre and mild description of what is happening to our people in Nazi occupied Polish territory. The full extent of the current Jewish tragedy appears in the columns of the Yiddish press.

Only in the Yiddish newspapers will you find the gruesome stories of how Jewish girls are rounded up in Warsaw and turned over to the Nazi soldiers for the latter's amusement; the details of the Jewish "reservation" in the Lublin territory where thousands of Jews are brought daily in closed railway cars and trucks from various parts of Poland (650,000 have already been taken there and left without shelter or food, thousands of them have become insane); descriptions of how the Nazi rulers deliberately and systematically seek to exterminate the Polish Jews through starvation and physical torture, refusing to admit help for the sufferers from outside sources, even from the Red Cross; how the Jews have been deprived of their homes and their possessions and made into virtual slaves who are compelled to work long hours at unendurable tasks; how hundreds are daily committing suicide; disease and epidemics are spreading rampantly among the Jews in Nazi occupied Poland, collecting daily a heavy toll of death under an inquisitorial regime which denies to these people medical aid or hospital facilities.

And so, as I read these reports of incredible brutality, I cannot help asking, as I have done before: what are we American Jews, situated in this blessed land of freedom and democracy, doing about our tortured brothers and sisters? Frankly, I do not know the answer, but I do know that a mere occasional reminder of our tragedy will not suffice, that American Jewry must not be allowed to remain complacently phlegmatic in face of the dire need of our martyred brethren and the imperative necessity for immediate help on a large scale.

I am deeply disturbed not only about the present but even more about the future. Our indifference at this moment is explained away by some who say we cannot do more right now; it is impossible to get into Poland proper, they say; we can only extend some immediate help to the Polish refugees in the adjacent lands. This argument is untenable, for we are not doing enough for the refugees outside of Poland either. But let us, for the sake of argument, accept this. What then? Do we not realize that sooner or later the doors of Poland will be pried open and we shall be faced with the full and gruesome spectacle of the ruin of Polish Jewry? In what way are we preparing for that eventuality? What are we doing to organize for effective large scale relief and reconstruction when we shall finally be enabled to extend succor to our brethren in Poland?

As I have said, I do not know the answer. I do not know exactly what we can do. But the one thing we cannot and must not do is to stand by indifferently at a time when history demands on our part the highest degree of responsibility with regard to the tragic plight of our tortured brothers and sisters.

Of course, as individuals many of us are greatly disturbed about the catastrophe that has befallen our people. But not until we begin to be worried as a group will our concern prove to be of any avail. We must think collectively about this problem and out of such thinking may, should come, collective action.

SUCCESS STORY

Not many months ago, the public prints in New York published a poignant if somewhat melodramatic foto. . . It showed a man, prostrate, kissing the cement pavement on one of the huge piers that jut into the Hudson river. . . That man was a refugee demonstrating his gratitude at having been permitted to enter the United States. . . That refugee was Herman Leopoldi, the famous Viennese comic. . . Today, not nine months after his arrival, Leopoldi may well be tempted to repeat that osculatory manifestation of gratitude with even increased fervor. . . Broke then and with only his talent as his capital, today the never-say-die comedian is once more sitting on top of the world. . . With the aid of the Rosenwald Capital Outlay Fund, which is operated through the National Refugee Service, he opened the Cafe Alt Wien on East 79th street, Manhattan. . . Almost from the start, the venture was a success. . . It had succeeded in capturing the pre-Nazi gaiety and Gemuetlichkeit of Vienna. . . The food was prepared to an epicure's taste. . . And Leopoldi had that rare combination of wit and personality that scored an instant appeal to all within sight of his beaming face and earshot of his jocular voice. . . Net result: The cafe is an uproarious success. . . On Saturday nights you can't get within a block of it. . . That being the night most of the refugees gather there. . . And it's almost equally as difficult to find elbow room on weekday evenings, when some of the loftiest brows among the intelligentsia and sassiety turn out to mop up its Danubian atmosphere.

GEOGRAPHIC NOTE

Those who know Sydney Moody, former deputy chief secretary of the Palestine government, will not be mystified at his sudden "exile." . . Moody has been made colonial secretary of Mauritius Island. . . One of those cross-word puzzle toughies that diligent search will locate as a speck in the Indian ocean, from which he can almost yoo-hoo to the islands to which those Arab leaders were once exiled.

TOLERANCE NOTE

Three Nazi students, stranded here by outbreak of the war, are learning things about this business called tolerance which they evidently never heard about before. . . They were guests at a Y. M. C. A. meeting of an interfaith group of Jews, Catholics and Protestants. . . Which was being addressed by Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. . . The boys were seated near the dais and were pointed out to Dr. Clinchy by the chairman of the meeting. . . When Dr. Clinchy finished his speech, he later told a Jewish meeting, he noticed with pleasure that the three youths joined enthusiastically in the applause. . . "As if," he said, "they had just been unburdened of a great weight and had seen the light."

SHOPPING NOTE

The predominantly Jewish garment center of New York opened its mouth in shocked surprise the other day when a truck breezed through the heart of it bearing large signs in red, white and blue. . . Which read: "Buy Christian for Christmas."

MISH-MASH

Habituees of Greenwich Village cafes are amusing themselves these days by tossing darts at targets decorated with figures of Hitler. The game is spreading to offices and homes. . . There'll be several changes in the officers' slate of the Joint Distribution Committee, to be announced at the forthcoming twenty-fifth annual meeting in Chicago. . . Speaking of the J. D. C., it's interesting to note that its executive director, Joseph C. Hyman, is just twice as old as the organization itself. He'll be reaching the half century mark on Dec. 14. . . The building housing chaltzim at the Cream Ridge, N. J., training farm burned down recently, leaving the youths homeless and many without even a shirt to their backs. . . Another of the Sargon boys of India has gone and done it. Several months ago Joe got hitched. Now, it's Dave, who married Sylvia Freedman of Roxbury, Mass. Both couples are returning to Bombay in the near future, where the Sargon boys operate the Jewish Tribune. . . A Canadian radio specialist recently revealed how the Gestapo track down Germans listening illegally to foreign broadcasts. A Nazi station broadcasts the sounds of bells or other signals, he told a Variety reporter in Montreal, so that if somebody tunes in on a foreign station the parasite sound (sent over a frequency similar to that used by the f. s.) is the tipoff which may lead the Gestapo to the door of the offending listener. . . Walter Winchell tips that one of those hatred outfits will soon campaign to have the Statue of Liberty removed "because of the poetry on it by a Jewess," or else have the poetry erased. . . And what did you ask Chanu Klaus to bring you, dear reader?

WHAT THEY THINK

Asked if he thought that the youth of the community was being given proper representation in the making of community decisions, Theodore Dann, president of Kirshbaum Center replied:

"There is a dearth in the community of young men and women who are taking up positions of responsibility. The older leaders are actually looking for younger men who show an interest and ability in organizational life, but except in a pitifully few cases, are able to find them.

"The day will come when the old timers will have to step aside. They know this well. Yet they can't find the new blood needed to replace them. One can name on their fingers the younger people who are working today in the Jewish community. The question is, it seems to me, why aren't younger people taking an interest in Jewish affairs?"

Marion Junior League Plans Gala Celebration

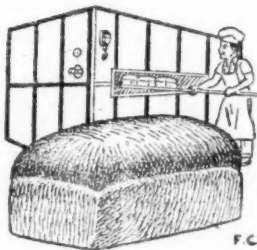

Special
MARION, Ind.—In an effort to give the new year the biggest send-off ever heard in and around Marion, the Jewish Junior League of this city is planning its annual New Year's Eve supper dance, which will be held in the Tropical Room of the Spencer Hotel.

Special novelty numbers, entertainers, a portable bar which will be rolled out on the dance floor and remain in use from 12 to 1 a. m., and continuous jitterbugging from 10:30 to 2:30 a. m., will feature the affair. Over 200 couples are expected to attend from all over the state, and the charge per couple, including the supper, is only $5.

Members of the dance committee in charge of the affair are Charles Siegel, chairman; Julian Sector, Mrs. Jack Dennis, Milton Maidenber, Mrs. Benjamin Senn, and Jason Klain.

Mrs. Jacob Berkowitz is spending several weeks in Chicago, Ill., visiting her daughter, Mrs. Benhardt Dorman and Mr. Dorman.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Sacks and daughter, Mrs. Sidney Goodman of Chicago, Ill., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Unger last week.

Our Film Folk of HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—Censors in Sussex, England, banned "Professor Mamlock" (anti-Nazi film made in Russia, remember?) . . . Reason: It might cause hatred for Germany! Whose war is this, Jenkins, or is it?

Strange species this Homo Criticus: In cosmopolitan New York, "Hitler—Beast of Berlin" was barred . . . and was passed finally when the title was curtailed to "Beasts of Berlin." Whereas in Pennsylvania, the Quaker state, the film was passed without a snip.

"The Great Commandment," lauded by previewers as a beautiful plea for religious tolerance, will be shelved because it is only colossal! Twentieth Century bought the footage for scrapage . . . and will remake the story into a super-stupendable.

Don't brush it off—that typographic speck is Goldwyn, Arizona! It's Showman Sammy scoring again. Not to be satisfied with a street, a river, or even a mountain, Sam bestows his tag on a whole town. It will be an authentic old western spot with legally-elected city government . . . will be used as a permanent "location" site with ever-changing inhabitants.

Rochester, Jack Benny's black-out, approached the "boss." Apprehensive of southern prejudice against darkies, he asked if Benny would protect him when they broadcast from Miami. "Sure," said Jack, "if you'll do the same for me when we play Berlin!"

Tag-ends: At his night spot they're introducing Slapsie-Maxie as the Jewish Huckelberry Finn. The Breen family took out liability insurance as a precaution when Bobby gave a birthday party. Hm—such ock-sensible guests! Director Mervyn LeRoy wins the 1939 Parent Magazine award for "Wizard of Oz" as the best family picture of the year. "Gabby" in Max Fleischer's "Gulliver's Travels" is expected to shoot to stardom after his first appearance. Hedwiga Reicher gleams a part in "Life of Dr. Ehrlich." The Editor's Chair:

I knew I was making a mistake in writing about my baby. The advice now is that I should stick to that type of writing, and leave the more weighty affairs alone.

To keep up the boast that readers of this paper are better informed on national Jewish affairs than most Jewish people of the United States, here's some information about the United Jewish Appeal. If you recall, The Jewish Post was first with the news that the 1939 goal of the U. J. A. had been set at $20,000,000. In fact, it took the other Anglo-Jewish papers exactly two weeks to verify the story. Of that goal $9,500,000 was immediately allocated between the J. D. C. ($5,000,000), the United Palestine Appeal ($2,500,000) and the Coordinating Committee ($2,000,000). Any sums raised above the $9,500,000 mark were to be divided by a committee consisting of five impartial Jewish leaders depending upon the needs at the time the division was made.

Well division of $6,500,000 raised above the $9,500,000 was made in Chicago two weeks ago. When my first information came, I decided that I had better wait for a verification. According to my informant, the J. D. C., which as was to be expected received the major share of the $6,500,000, felt that it had not received enough to carry out the work before it. Then I heard from the Zionist (U. P. A.) side, and they were just as angry as the J. D. C., feeling that the money was not distributed properly.

How it was divided I do not as yet know. I can tell you, however, that when the new year bells ring on December 31, the United Jewish Appeal expects that it will have raised throughout the nation $18,000,000. From memory I believe that this sum compares with about $4,000,000 in 1938, and a much smaller sum in 1937. But if you feel that the saturation point has been reached, let me repeat what Isidore Feibleman replied to Ra'bi Leon Feuer in Akron about six weeks ago. German Jewry, Mr. Feibleman pointed out, consisting of 500,000 souls was fined 400,000,000 marks in one day. U. S. Jewry, he added, had not even begun to cut into its principle, but so far was giving from either surplus or income, with very little

Which Way The Wind Blows

A MOVE which should not be overlooked by those who are fighting in behalf of unity on the American Jewish scene whether it be via the Big Four or through any other channel, is the meeting in New York Armistice Day at which eight national organizations met for the purpose of combining fund-raising efforts dealing with refugee and overseas needs.

The meeting is important because it was called by the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds, the group whose constituent community councils throughout the nation made possible the Big Four in 1938. That this group can bring about unity in one field when the Big Four watches impotently while its members fight one another points to a new way; this paper believes.

The eight groups represented were the J. D. C., the U. P. A., the National Refugee Service, ORT, HIAS, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, the National Labor Committee for Palestine, and American Friends of the Hebrew University. The first three of the eight have for the past few years solicited their funds jointly under the United Jewish Appeal, but the remaining five have conducted independent campaigns. According to Notes and News, publication of the Council, the meeting was called "in response to the desires of local welfare funds throughout the country as expressed at regional conferences of the Council in recent months."

Northern Indiana Jewry To The Front

ALL REPORTS from South Bend indicate that the Mid West regional convention of Hadassah there Sunday and Monday was a glorious success. Smoothly run and with a program that would grace well a national convention, the sessions at the Oliver Hotel were described by one delegate as more impressive even than those of the New York convention of several weeks ago.

In connection with the meeting and the success with which it was run off, it should be noted that northern Indiana is becoming more and more of a factor in Indiana Jewish life. Julius S. Friedman of East Chicago is the president of the Indiana-Kentucky B'nai B'rith Association, having succeeded another northern man, Louis Novitsky of Ft. Wayne. And the president of the Indiana Union of Jewish Youth, Charles Glueck, resides in Gary. Taken as a whole, it is becoming increasingly apparent that Indianapolis no longer can lay claim to all the honors when Indiana is mentioned, as up until the past few years, it could with all reasonable justification, do.

Current Comment

Rev. Charles Owen Rice, Catholic Priest, Unmasks Those Who Hide Their Anti-Semitism Behind Such Statements as Good and Bad Jews—One of the features connected with the present wave of anti-Semitism that is being stirred up is that some of the leading purveyors of anti-Semitism hotly deny that they are anti-Semites.

They employ a clever sophistry in their attempts to escape the stigma. They define anti-Semitism in a certain restricted sense and then they claim that their teachings and utterances do not bring them under the term.

For instance, these enemies of the Jew will define anti-Semitism as persecution of the Jew because he is a Jew. They will hold that because, to their anti-Jewish attacks, they affix a rider saying that they exempt good Jews, therefore, they are automatically absolved of anti-Semitism.

As a matter of fact, the unctuous employment of the "good Jews" qualifier generally intensifies the anti-Semitism of the statements as a whole.

Also we can have attacks upon Jews, as Jews, without direct statements.

The brutal, crude, direct anti-Semitic utterances are far less harmful than the subtle ones.

Off-hand I can give a partial list of some of the more commonly used anti-Semitic statements and inferences.

It is anti-Semitism to exaggerate the power of Jews, whether it be power in finance, in industry, in newspaper publishing, in radio or anything else.

It is anti-Semitism to say or hint that there is a mysterious central controlling Jewish, national or international, leadership.

It is anti-Semitism to exaggerate the clannishness of Jews.

It is anti-Semitism to speak of deliberate, controlled Jewish campaigns against Christianity.

It is anti-Semitic to exaggerate Jewish participation in Communism and similar movements.

It is anti-Semitism to hint at, or charge, a tie-up between "International Jewry" and "International Masonry." The very term, "International Jewry," has definite anti-Semitic implications.

You will note that these effective types of anti-Semitism consist of lies and exaggerations. Their harmfulness consists in their engendering a feeling of mixed fear and anger in the breasts of non-Jews. All of them have been proved false. They are damnable un-American, un-Christian and anti-social.

The Jewish Transcript Is Highly Honored by Two Attempted Break-ins—From the editor in chief to the printer's devil, the staff of The Jewish Transcript is highly elated. Friday night two burglars tried to break into the shop and blow up the safe. They were seen by a neighbor on the roof of the building and before they could operate prowler cars were at the rear and front of the building and they were captured and put in jail. But for anybody—even a robber—to think that we had money and were worth being robbed put us all on top of the mountain. From now on we propose to leave the safe open; no use to put these people to extra trouble. Even a burglar is entitled to consideration. One thing is certain, the police department was both prompt and efficient.

England's Plan to Implement White Paper Indefensible, the Jewish Exponent Says—There is one other aspect that cannot be overemphasized. It is this: Moral issues presumably transcend all other considerations in the war in which Great Britain is now engaged. On the strength of these moral issues Great Britain seeks, and, in large measure is obtaining, the friendly interest of other nations, America not excluded. The very least that can be expected of Great Britain is to face these issues with unsullied hands. At the time of publication, the White Paper was characterized everywhere—in England and in most of the other countries of the world—as a betrayal of promises made in good faith. The British Parliament refused to commit itself to it. The Council of the League of Nations did not approve it. When England entered the war it was taken for granted that that paper would not again see the light of day. This must be so. On several occasions spokesmen for Great Britain gave assurances that the days of the Munich pact are over. This applies no less to Palestine and the White Paper. Great Britain must not make it difficult for millions of people the world over to believe in her sincerity.

Jewry on threshold of era of intense religious feeling. William J. Shroder of Cincinnati, tells the delegates to regional meeting of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.—I believe that we are on the threshold of an era of intensified religious feeling and expression, but this religion will not be a religion of retirement. If it serves merely as a retreat from the pressures of present living, if man finds in it only an escape from the now to the consolations of a some day, as it offers merely a shelter from the reality of our world of fears and confusion, while it will have served and end, it will not have done its part in shaping the life of man, in safeguarding the advancement of a civilized way of life. Present day religion must be a religion of action and a religion in action.

Now if you are of the "better class," please tell us so when you call or write, for otherwise we won't be able to inform you about this hotel. How do you tell a better class Jew from an ordinary Jew? If you don't know already, I'm not going to tell you now. You either are or are not, and that's all there is. Me? Of course, I'm of the better class. But don't you worry, I know plenty of Jews of the other class too. They're the people who don't subscribe to this paper, the circulation manager just whispered to me.
